FRANK LISCIANDRO
Chronicling American Rock History

The 60s...steamy Los Angeles...protests...The Doors...an intensely pivotal decade in modern American history. A period and a culture defined by explosive events and larger than life characters... Photographer and filmmaker Frank Lisciandro was there, at the right place, at the right time – centerstage. He was there both as a witness and as an artist, taking stock of some of the most incendiary moments of a radical decade; a decade when artists explored and simultaneously defined what was to become the new American psyche.

*You are invited to attend the vernissage

*The reception will be held at Galerie Harwood
